

Swedish Essentials for Total Beginners

Lesson 6. Personal pronouns

Personliga pronomen

Subject form / Subject pronouns

In Swedish	In English
jag	I
du	you (one person)
han	he
hon	she
den	it
det	it
vi	we
ni	you (a group of people)
de	they

The verb doesn't depend on the pronoun. For example, we will use a verb in the same form with all pronouns.

Examples:

Jag tittar på filmer. - I watch movies./ I am watching movies.

Du tittar på filmer. - You watch movies./ You are watching movies.

Han tittar på filmer. - He watches movies./ He is watching movies.

Hon tittar på filmer. - She watches movies./ She is watching movies.

Vi tittar på filmer. - We watch movies./ We are watching movies.

Ni tittar på filmer. - You watch movies./ You are watching movies.

De tittar på filmer. - They watch movies./ They are watching movies.

We used the verb "tittar" with all pronouns. The same for "den" and "det".

In Swedish, we always say "du", when we address someone, even in formal situations, and even when we don't know the person that we are talking to.

We use "ni" only when we talk about a group of people, more than one.

Object form / Object pronouns

Subject form	Object form	In English
jag	mig	me
du	dig	you
han	honom	him
hon	henne	her
den	den	it
det	det	it
vi	oss	us
ni	er	you
de	dem	them

Examples:

Hon pratar med mig. - She talks to me. / She is talking to me.

Jag pratar med dig. - I talk to you. / I am talking to you.

Jag pratar med honom. - I talk to him. / I am talking to him.

Jag pratar med henne. - I talk to her. / I am talking to her.

Hon pratar med oss. - She talks to us. / She is talking to us.

Jag pratar med er. - I talk to you. / I am talking to you.

Jag pratar med dem. - I talk to them. / I am talking to them.

a subject form – a subject of a sentence, an object form – an object of a sentence

We say “de” and “dem” the same way but they should be written differently. If it is “they”, we use “de”. If it is “them”, we use “dem”.
